The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 25, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when three parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was dismounted January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiments Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with whatever remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was surrendered January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 25, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 25th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River (some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N.C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was organized at Camden Point, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have remained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was reorganized January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River and was serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1[illegible] with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was [illegible]ed into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1[illegible]. Many members of the regiment are found to have had [illegible] service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 [illegible]hs) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas [illegible]ers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at [illegible] Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the [illegible] River in April and May, 1865, when it was consolidated [illegible]er remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas [illegible]y. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when [illegible] parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were [illegible] to form one said organization, but each appears to have [illegible]mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of [illegible]ment was consolidated with the remnants of other regi[illegible] in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, [illegible]about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was [illegible]ured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi [illegible] serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry [illegible]ded) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment [illegible]mounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when three parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been reported separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Giraldus's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) until others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

* This company subsequently became Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when various parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Enlisted men on Extra or Daily Duty:

Present enlisted men accounted for:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added as Company H some time after the muster of June 28, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (9 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (9 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged some of the men in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the men of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been operated separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Greenleaf's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of this regiment were found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in the 9th (Nichols') Battalion Texas Infantry (12 months). Company C, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry, was organized as Company C, 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) on January 11, 1862, and was exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1862, when the regiment was consolidated with other troops to form the 17th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (12 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Arkansas, January 11, 1863, when the regiment was consolidated with the 9th and 24th Battalions to form the 11th Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was completed on April 6, 1863, when the 11th Texas Cavalry was consolidated with the 9th and 24th Battalions to form the 11th Texas Cavalry (Dismounted). The 11th Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) was consolidated with the 25th Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) on May 7, 1863, when the 25th Texas Cavalry was reorganized as a mounted regiment.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were combined to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was dismounted January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

General,

I would most respectfully represent that this Consolidated Regt is without an Adjutant. The 18th 24th & 25th Regts have Adjutants in Tenn. Miss. Dpt. 17th has no Adjutant. The Adjutant having died a prisoner of the Regt at Arkansas Post.

The duties of Adjutant of this Regt. have since its Consolidation been performed by Henry V. Smith a private in Co. I 25th Tenn. Vol. he believing and those Hd Qrs also believing him to have been appointed a Lieutenant by the War Dept. upon the Recommendation of Lt Gen Hardee.

The said Smith was examined by a Military Board, convened for the purpose and pronounced competent and worthy of promotion. He has discharged the duties of said Office, to the entire satisfaction of these Hd Qrs and I would therefore, and in view of the Vacancy existing, respectfully recommend and ask that the said Henry V. Smith, private in Co. I, 25th Tenn Vol. be commissioned Adjutant, ranking as First Lt. from the 23rd day of May 1863, the date of Consolidation and that his name be borne on the Rolls of the 17th Regt and that he be ordered to Report to these Hd Qrs for duty as such Officer.

He was born in Columbus Co. Florida & claims Tennessee as his home. He is 26 years of age.

*This company subsequently became Company H, 35th Regt. Texas Cavalry.

The 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regt. Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June [illegible] with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was [illegible] into Company H some time after the muster of June [illegible]. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry [illegible] or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas [illegible] (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at [illegible] Point, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Red River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 28th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when [illegible] of the 28th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have [illegible] separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion [illegible] was consolidated with the remnants of other [illegible] Shelby's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greenville, [illegible] May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which [illegible] January 31, 1865, remained west of the Mississippi [illegible] serving in the 28th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry [illegible] and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment [illegible] Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was designated Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Fort Hindman Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were used to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned late Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were formed to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the officers of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been paroled separately. About April 8, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Debray's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

* This company subsequently became Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry was known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers. The regiment was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Gallagher's Company was merged into Company F, 25th Regiment, by order of June 30, 1862. Many members of Company F, 25th Regiment, are found to have had prior service in the 1st Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in the 1st Battalion Texas Cavalry (3 months) or 1st Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) Volunteers. The regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River. In April, 1863, it was consolidated with similar remaining regiments and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidated regiment was paroled at Meridian, Miss., May 10, 1865. Many members of the 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry were transferred to Company F, 24th Regiment Texas Cavalry, after the muster of June 30, 1862, and their names appear on the rolls of Company F, 24th Regiment. In March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments were consolidated, each appears to have been mustered out of service. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was consolidated January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the 25th regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Mounted Cavalry.

*This company was one of several that composed Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry was also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Rangers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers. It was organized June 1, 1863, with seven companies. Captain Donaldson's company was merged into it soon after the muster of June 25, 1863. Many men who the records are found to have had prior service in the 9th, 10th and 11th Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months men), Waller's Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months), and Carter's Battalion Texas Rangers. A part of the regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River. Upon reorganization, April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. The consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. Again, April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., April 26, 1865. The remainder of the regiment, which surrendered and was paroled January 31, 1865, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was [illegible] Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many prisoners of the regiment are found to have had service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Camp Pratt, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged; east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the survivors of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were formed into one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Waterbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 6th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 30 Regiment Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1863 with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months), Company C, 31 (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863 and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 6th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately about April 9, 1864, when the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and participated in the pursuit of Steele's command through Arkansas. The regiment was captured at Greenbrier River, some seventy miles west of the Mississippi (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 4th, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 28th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

*This company subsequently became Company D, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the regimental remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the members of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been considered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Debray's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was designated Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Gimsbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was consolidated January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of this regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment, Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when three parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company was merged into Company H of this regiment sometime after the muster of June 30, 1862.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 20th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. *This company subsequently became Company C, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added later. Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have subsequently commenced separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Waterbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) until October 31, 1864, when they were consolidated with the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 20th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when various parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N.C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not dismounted January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had earlier service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when several parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was reorganized January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have remained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, those serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiments Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company A, 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Mounted Volunteers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 Volunteers (6 months); in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th Texas Cavalry. The consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 8, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 6th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had earlier service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when many parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was consolidated January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were used to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was exchanged January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company F, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, never serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiments Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 8, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greabery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 9th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 25. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the men of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have remained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River surviving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Texas Mounted Volunteers, of Cavalry) was organized June 1, 1861 with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into service in Cavalry Brigade at Camp Van Dorn, near Fulton, Arkansas, June 25, 1861. Many members of the 25th (Nichols') Regiment are found to have had prior service in the 5th Company H, 1st (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months), 1st Regiment, Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Company G, 1st Regiment, Texas Infantry (6 months). Some time after the muster of June 25, 1861 the regiment was ordered to Pocahontas, Arkansas, where it was captured at Pocahontas Road, Arkansas, January 11, 1862 and exchanged at Vicksburg, Miss. A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Arkansas, January 11, 1863 and exchanged at Vicksburg, Miss. The remnants of the 5th and 11th, 5th and 6th, and 5th and 6th Regiments were consolidated into one field organization, but each appears to have served in Granbury's Texas Brigade, Cleburne's Division, Hardee's Corps, Army of Tennessee, and with the remnants of other regiments surrendered at Greensboro, N. C. April 26, 1865. This portion of the regiment was paroled at Greensboro, N. C. May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment was paroled at Meridian, Miss. May 10, 1865. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry was consolidated with the 6th Regiment Texas Cavalry, the 10th Regiment Texas Cavalry (Dismounted), the 15th Regiment Texas Cavalry (Dismounted), the 16th Regiment The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 20th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned later. Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the regimental remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the remnants of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been maintained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Ector's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, operating in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry Consolidated, and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

Remarks:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 28th and 36th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the remnants of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were formed into one field organization, but each appears to have been retained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Carter's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was paroled at Shreveport, January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry Consolidated and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 33 (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 20th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were used to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was reorganized January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added to Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were said to form one field organization, but each appears to have maintained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Gurley's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Mounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the officers of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to the same field organization, but each appears to have functioned separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry, and finally with others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment, Consolidated Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade, Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been announced separately. About April 9, 1865 this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was mustered into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. *This company subsequently became Company H, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry.) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company A, 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 35th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many musicians of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were formed into one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Gen. Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was consolidated January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. We certify that we have carefully examined Lt. D. D. Thompson, Co. D. 25th Regt Texas and find him incapacitated performing the duties of a soldier because of wound of the right shoulder. The ball entering near middle of humerus & passing beneath the scapula, leaving its lower angle in its exit. The motion of the joint nearly destroyed & the wound still discharging. The consequences of which he is, in our opinion unfitted for military for field duty. And we would respectfully recommend that he be allowed to resign.

* This company subsequently became Company A, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company G, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added late Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been numbered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the men of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were to form one field organization, but each appears to have been considered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was surrendered January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were said to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when certain parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. *This company subsequently became Company D, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Jenkins' Ferry, Ark., January 11, 1864, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1865, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the two parts of the 21th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, that portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1864, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Strawbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had earlier service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 34 (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was dismounted January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 6th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1861, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (unconsolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were said to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

*This company subsequently became Company K, 28th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 28th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 5th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Camp Pena, Ariz., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 28th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 28th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The remnant of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Absent enlisted men accounted for:

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was enrolled into Company H some time after the muster of June 20. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the smaller remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the remnants of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were consolidated to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was paroled January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry, commanded Granbury.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was designated Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous services in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the remaining remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the officers of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greer's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina, May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were to form one field organization, but each appears to have remained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, North Carolina May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry Consolidated and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. *This company subsequently became Company C, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 28th and 30th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 21th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Strawbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 28th and 30th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company G, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was dropped June Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 25th and 35th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Mounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been numbered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added later Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but seem appear to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenleaf's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company K, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were to form one field organization, but each appears to have operated separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, and the survivors in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiments Texas Consolidated Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 19th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was reorganized January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

*This company subsequently became Company B, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added to form Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when companies of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was surrendered January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

*This company subsequently became Company C, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 28th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were found to form one field organization, but each appear to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbery's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was added into Company H some time after the muster of June 30. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Infantry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with other remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have maintained separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was consolidated January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the M Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with the remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the men of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments of Waterbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, serving in the 24th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry, Company D and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not dismounted January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Colonel

I am a private of Capt Williamson's Co of mounted cavalry stationed at this place, and most respectfully ask for a furlough long enough to enable me to go to Louisiana to bring back my brothers Colon Miller. He is a private in Co I (Capt Killough) of Gen Tibbey (late Green's) Brigade, 5th Regiment, and was severely by a minnie ball through the lungs, in one of the fights in La. and now is disabled by his wounds at a private residence near Thibodeaux La. He is a brother of my wife, and has no father living, and his only brother was killed at the battle of Mansfield La. May time is about 75 miles from here, and I respectfully ask for time enough to go there for a carriage, and there to get and get home carry him to my house and return to my co

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 20, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 28, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

An efficient force will be kept, so that Planters and others Storing Cotton, may rely on obtaining their samples and receipts promptly. Cotton will be sold at the usual commission, and returns punctually made so soon after sale as possible. RECEIVING and FORWARDING GOODS and MERCHANDISE of all kinds will be particularly attended to at very moderate rates.

A share of patronage is respectfully solicited from the Planting community.

J. F. JOHNSON.

Having sold the above named Warehouse to J. F. JOHNSON, I cheerfully and cordially recommend him to the former patrons of the House.

Dear Sir.

You will pardon me for intruding upon your time. I would request that you do me one favor. I have had my Papers from the "Medical Examining board" sent forward to the A.G. Office. for retirement, and recommended for furlough. I wish that you would see the Secretary of war, and if practicable procure him a furlough to visit the State of South Carolina. The reason I ask this is, my Family are on the soil of the Yankees, and we have fears in South Carolina. I am still on Hospital stopping place, and unfit for duty by the Surgeon of war. Can also assigned to duty by the Surgeon of war. Can do nothing. I am a cripple. But am able to do post duty. such as Provost. or other office duty. by seeing the Secy of War. and getting the assignment at once. You will oblige

Your obedient servant
& Friend

*This company subsequently became Company H, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 2d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 28, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 2d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, never serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Greenbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when the parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had previous service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Cavalry (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 2d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 25th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was surrendered January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 26th and 28th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Dismounted) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of this regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N.C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when these parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1863, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was merged into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1863. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 1st (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 26th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when those parts of the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were ordered to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.

Remarks:

*This company subsequently became Company F, 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry.

The 25th Regiment Texas Cavalry (also known as the 3d Regiment Texas Lancers and as the 3d Regiment Carter's Brigade Texas Mounted Volunteers, or Cavalry,) was organized June 1, 1862, with eleven companies. Captain Proudfoot's Company was assigned into Company H some time after the muster of June 30, 1862. Many members of the regiment are found to have had prior service in the 9th (Nichols') Regiment Texas Infantry (6 months) or in Cavalry Company C, 3d (Kirby's) Battalion Texas Volunteers (6 months). A part of this regiment was captured at Arkansas Post, Ark., January 11, 1863, and exchanged east of the Mississippi River in April and May, 1863, when it was consolidated with similar remnants of the 17th, 18th and 24th Regiments Texas Cavalry. This consolidation was broken up in March, 1864, when some parts of the 21th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry were united to form one field organization, but each appears to have been mustered separately. About April 9, 1865, this portion of the regiment was consolidated with the remnants of other regiments in Granbury's Texas Brigade, and paroled at Greensboro, N. C., about May 1, 1865. The balance of the regiment, which was not captured January 11, 1863, remained west of the Mississippi River, some serving in the 24th and 25th Regiments Texas Cavalry (Consolidated) and others in the 17th Consolidated Regiment Texas Dismounted Cavalry.
